

Calling all classical rock fanatics and Christmas music junkies! Chances are, if that got your attention, you already know about the steamroller coming in this Holiday Season, as they always include St. Louis in their extravagant winter tour. The Trans-Siberian Orchestra is claiming to be doing it even better this year than previous years, so this will be a spectacle you will not want to miss, especially with the addition of their brand new songs. Hurry up and clear your calendar as they are only in St. Louis on December 12 and are offering a 3pm show (doors open at 2pm) or an 8pm show (doors open at 7pm) at the Scott Trade Center. Tickets typically sell out, so grab yours now. Tickets may be purchased at ticketmaster.com, the Scott Trade Center box office, or directly through the Trans-Siberian Orchestra directly by going to <http://www.trans-siberian.com>

For those of you who live and breathe for the Trans-Siberian Orchestra, I recommend you sign up for their fan club. I did, and I have amazing seats this year (the closest you can get without being VIP) for a fraction of the cost they would sell for once offered to the general public. You will not only get to be one of the first fans to listen to new tracks, but you will be given special deals, including great prices on ideal seats prior to the pre-sales! Very worth the while, just make sure to save your log in information for next year! Visit <http://www.trans-siberianexpress.com> to join the fan club!